

PRAIRIE YOGA TEACHER TRAINING

Part 1: Intermediate

Training is the first step. This 10-week bridge between your 200-hour yoga teacher training and Part 2: Advanced Training provides an in-depth, intermediate-level focus on asana, pranayama, sequencing and teaching skills.

Prerequisite: Open to teachers who have completed a 200-hour yoga teacher training program.

Course Description

- Refine your own practice. Fine-tune your understanding of alignment in asana and address specific issues that arise for you and your students. Establish a personal pranayama practice.
- Train your eyes to see and your body to feel, unhealthy habitual patterns and then learn how to guide yourself and your students into healthy movements. Refine alignment of intermediate-level poses.
- Study the Yoga Sutras with a big picture view and learn the essence of yoga as a system.
- Learn how to sequence for different categories of asana, to create energetic effects and how to use simple asana to prepare for complex asana.
- Clarify your teaching skills to demonstrate visually, cue clearly and adjust students manually to support your teaching.

Part 1: Intermediate Training can be taken without continuing into the Part 2: Advanced Training. The Intermediate Training qualifies for Continuing Education credits through Yoga Alliance.

Coursework Each weekly session involves practice, training and group discussion. Homework is minimal, typically 1-2 hours per week. Your full commitment and attendance is required, so please adjust your schedule accordingly.

500-hour Yoga Teacher Training

- A comprehensive plan for deep growth
- Enrich your own practice of asana, pranayama and meditation
- Expand your sequencing, teaching skills and ability to adapt yoga for all students
- Gain insight into classical yoga texts
- Discover your own unique teaching style

Part 2: Advanced Training is for those interested in continuing the path to 500-hour certification. Further enhance your sequencing and teaching skills; immerse yourself in yoga philosophy; and learn how to adapt the practice to make yoga accessible for everyone.

Prerequisite: Part 1: Intermediate Training required. No exceptions.

Course Description: An advanced study of classical yoga designed to develop your own unique, contemporary teaching. Become an inspiring and effective teacher. Learn how to teach from the divine spark within your heart.

Topics

- Modify the practice for special populations and common health issues.
- Work with students therapeutically to aid their healing process and restore health.
- Experience and learn how to teach deep relaxation, yoga nidra, mindfulness and meditation.
- Develop your art of sequencing with intention and intelligence.
- Teach with deeper intentions through themes, linking and yogic concepts.
- Refine your verbal cues, visual demonstrations and manual adjustments
- Learn how to guide students into their energetic, psychological and intuitive bodies to help them access inner joy.
- Sharpen your ability to "see" your students, prioritize their needs and become more efficient and effective.
- Build a private practice, expand your career and embody ethical teaching.
- Apply principles of western and eastern anatomy and the subtle body.
- Understand ancient and modern yoga philosophy, yoga psychology and Ayurveda
- Study and discuss the Upanishads, Bhagavad Gita, Yoga Sutras and the Hatha Yoga Pradipika.

Coursework Advanced Training participation in and commitment to: weekly practice and training classes; group discussions; weekly homework (estimated 5+ hours per week); consistent personal practice; workshops with master teachers; apprentice in therapeutic use of yoga; videotaping of your teaching with review; culmination project to develop and teach your own specialty yoga topic.
